

An Honest Review Of The Redgsr GuruCreation SEO Service

As it stands, I've used roughly ten or so SEO services over the past year. Each one brought something different to the table, and each one had different benefits. The only one I can say anything negative about is the one provided by the Redgsr GuruCreation service, which I have plenty of experience to tell all who would listen.

GuruCreation is the name of the service that I had found through a forum I visit. The service had many good replies, so I thought that the owner, Redgsr, would know how to handle my website and get me to the top of Google rankings. At this point I had no idea what I was getting into, and as the saying goes, ignorance is bliss.

I kept my Google Analytics account on close watch- but found something unexpected. It seems that GuruCreation has been using a public article distribution network all along, and decided to charge me an obscene amount of money by passing the network off as theirs! I was enraged at this point, yet I bottled up my concerns and waited for his statistics report.

I was still at least a little positive about the fact that I got an SEO service regardless of the fact that GuruCreation was ripping off their customers. But once I got the report, I saw that instead of the advertised 100,000 backlinks I was promised, I got a little over 150. As time went on, I lost most of those too simply because of the Google Duplicate Content filter.

Once I noticed that I got scammed outright, I started telling other customers that GuruCreation was using a service called ArticleMarketer for their distribution. For the price that GuruCreation demands for a submission, $87, we all could of had three months worth of unlimited submissions!

Once I told everyone, we all decided to boycott his services and spread the word so that no one else fell into his trap. We strongly recommend against using the GuruCreation service simply because it is pretending to be an SEO network, but in reality he is just using someone else's hard work and making a huge profit from it.

In Conclusion

Hopefully anything said here can influence possible customers to steer clear from this shoddy service. If I've learned anything from this process, it is that Redgsr and GuruCreation are a complete and total scam. Now as I prepare to move on and order a real SEO service elsewhere, I'm gladly telling everyone what I found out in my experience with them.
